SAS strengthens key routes for summer 2027

SAS presents its summer 2027 traffic program, with additional capacity on seven intercontinental routes from Copenhagen and more departures or longer operating seasons on more than 20 routes across Scandinavia and Europe. Two new seasonal services to Ljubljana and Menorca complement the program.

The schedule supports the continued development of Copenhagen as Northern Europe's global hub and the ambition for SAS to be the leading carrier connecting the region with the world.

"Our focus for summer 2027 is on adding capacity where we see clear demand," says Erik Westman, Executive Vice President and Chief Revenue Officer at SAS. "For travelers, more frequent flights mean greater flexibility in choosing when to travel and more options for connecting to their next destination."

More daily services to North America and Asia

From Copenhagen, services to Tokyo, Seoul and Washington will increase from six weekly departures to daily, while Atlanta will increase from five weekly departures to daily. Seattle will increase from four to five weekly departures.

SAS will also introduce the larger Airbus A350 on its routes to Chicago and Mumbai, replacing the Airbus A330. Mumbai will operate for its first full summer season, improving connections between Scandinavia and India.

More departures across Scandinavia and Europe

From Copenhagen, SAS will increase service to Stockholm from 15 to up to 18 daily departures, while Aarhus will increase from four to five daily departures.

Geneva will increase from 13 to 19 weekly departures, Barcelona from 10 to 13, and Venice from eight to 11. SAS will also add departures to Nice, Mallorca, Porto, Bilbao and Catania.

From Stockholm, SAS will add capacity to northern Sweden with more departures to Luleå and Kiruna. Rome will increase to six weekly departures, while Milan and Madrid will also receive additional departures. Services to Geneva and Keflavik will be extended to operate throughout the summer season.

In Norway, SAS will increase capacity from Oslo to Manchester, Brussels and Rome, while service between Stavanger and Trondheim will grow from three to four daily departures.

Two new summer routes from Copenhagen

SAS will introduce a twice-weekly service to Ljubljana from 25 June to 6 August 2027, connecting the Slovenian capital with Copenhagen and offering onward connections across the SAS network in Scandinavia and Europe.
